Peace Challenge for the New Administration

On January 20th, a new president of the US will be inaugurated. Join us to publicly urge the new Administration to fulfill its progressive campaign promises, particularly the redirection of US foreign policy away from the use or threat of force and towards a renewed emphasis on diplomacy.

The 2008 election infused countless Americans with hope for real change, and inspired them to work to make it happen. It will take continued outreach, popular involvement and pressure on Congress to fulfill the promise of change that brought Americans to the polls to elect Barack Obama.

Join our efforts in 2009 and beyond!
